It's been a very exciting and busy week here at Olive Hill.

Breaking news just in: The Usborne book fair is coming to school! Year 5's time travel trip; Nursery's special story time, perfect printed pictures presented and peculiar phase swap.

A representative from Usborne will come in on parents evening to host a book fair right here at Olive Hill. We hope you all come and choose a book on 23rd/25th October in the school hall - you may be able to do some early Christmas shopping!

On Thursday this week, Year 5 went on a trip to Black Country museum to learn about the Victorians. They split into groups and looked at shops and trains that were used by Victorians. Pine and Pear classes had the chance to learn how metal was made. After that the pupils went to the sweet shop and bakery. 'I enjoyed the mine. It was lots of fun.' (Zahra Bashir, Year 5, Pine).

Nursery parents have joined in with reading sessions this week and from now on Nursery take a story home to read together every week. In other news, more new books have arrived for KS1 to select from their library.

On Tuesday, a photographer came in to school to take pictures of us looking our best.

We hope you have enjoyed reading this week's news. We are your news reporters Connor Barron and Ibrahim Akhtar and a special guest Vinnie Robins (Head boy).

Thank you all for providing lots of information about this week. We are very much looking forward to discussing your child's learning with you next week, please speak to your child's classteacher if you have not made an appointment - we would really like to have 100% attendance from all of our families. On both evenings the English, maths and reading leads will be available in the large hall, as well as the SENCO and Usborne books. A reminder to all our reception, year one and year two parents that your children are entitled to universal free school meals.
