A Message from Imogen and Boti

Another jam-packed week Imogen! I know, but we haven't got the newsletter done and dusted yet: don't get ahead of yourself, Boti. Well, what are we doing here chatting? Let's go ahead and begin.

So, where shall we start? It's such a long list. How about the thrilling World Cup story that we have been reading in class? I believe it's called 'Defenders: Russia' made by the author, Tom Palmer; I love his books. And I'm sure once you have entered his competition, you will too! Guess what?! We got to vote on how the story will develop! Amazing, don't you think?

We will, we will rock you! What are you talking about Boti? Oh, I'm just singing my new favourite song thanks to Magnolia's most recent class assembly; it was awesome! I thoroughly enjoyed the role-play and it was extremely clever how they incorporated the information into the acting. Yes, that's correct Imogen and who wouldn't love the costumes the parents provided- thanks! The children looked great.

EYFS had a real treat this week. Namely, their exciting Eid party where they received the beautiful Mendi. A trail of outdoor play apparatus was installed and the children thoroughly enjoyed playing on it!

The Science Fair event occurred today with various children bringing their projects in to showcase. It was tremendously fun viewing the children's unique experiments. You're right Imogen, I produced my own piece all about how the eye changes when drinking alcohol.

Don't forget to wear your house colours to school on the 6th of July ready for Sports Day. This year, Sports Day co-insides with Mufti Day so as a result there was a letter sent out with further details included.

Oh wait, we forgot to mention the menacing visitors that have been monitoring the quality of our learning during lessons! Yeah, they were quite intimidating, weren't they Boti? I heard that they are really pleased with what they observed- so I guess they weren't so bad after all- it was just our imaginations getting the best of us!

Wow, there was a lot of information involved in this week's newsletter: Imogen, my hands are getting cramps. Ouch! Despite this, we hope you have a great weekend!
