A Message from Imogen and Boti

What a week, what a week, Imogen! I've never felt so gleeful in my life! Sorry about the introduction everyone - we've just been so excited. Let's remind you about this week's news, Boti!! Okay! Here we go...!

Last week, we forgot to mention how much fun Nursery had on their trip to the zoo! The children were very well behaved and sensible despite being excitable. They even produced a book about the animals they saw!

On Monday, we were treated to a delightful E-safety production, informing the children how to be safe online and notifying us what to do in certain situations. Amari (Head Boy) and Jeremy (Red House Captain) have provided further details below.

During the week, everyone met their teacher for next year, including some new teachers who will be joining the school in September. Prior to that, the Year 6 pupils went to their new high schools and had a great time! I heard that children at Leasowes were making slime, Imogen!

A sports event occurred on Wednesday with Miss Poole, Year 3 and 4 and 10 children from Caslon Primary School. On the theme of sport, our Sports Day took place today with all the children competing in a variety of challenges. Let's not forget that it is the first time that Miss Poole has organised our sports day; she did an amazing job of hosting it this year!

What's next Boti? I know! The SVAT choir performed to us yesterday during assembly involving a few members from our own choir; they did brilliantly and it was great to see our choir learning from older and more experienced pupils.

We hope you have a fantastic weekend and I really hope Boti doesn't go into another CRAZY tantrum! Ha ha ha Imogen!

KS2 Writing Competition

Children in KS2 have until Monday 16th July to enter our World Cup Writing competition. They should write between 150-300 words from the viewpoint of someone at the World Cup.

Perhaps they would write about England's dramatic penalty shoot-out win.

E-Safety Production

On Monday 2nd July, Olive Hill were privileged to view an e-safety production by Fire Horse Production Company all about how to stay safe online.

The play was extremely humorous and the children loved all of the funny moments. During the assembly, the characters got the audience involved, informing them to keep safe in a fun and interactive way. The storyline of the play was set around a game show, and the actors notified children what to do in difficult situations. Olive Hill children learned about how to be sensible and safe online and enjoyed the marvellous show they performed.
